

ASF Comments on Missing Middle Housing Survey Questions (Questions Attached Below)
January 5, 2021

-- Questions are leading (this applies to each of the 25 questions);
-- Questions are presumptive (question 1 assumes a housing shortage, questions 5 and 6 assume certain answers to the questions that precede them);
-- Questions misplace cause and effect, thus skewing replies (question 7 likely will prompt replies reflecting housing affordability, and/or answers that incorrectly presume builders cannot supply 3-bedroom homes in hi-rises in Metro corridors);
-- Questions are formed against only partial or subjective context. Question 8 omits extensive supplemental info and thus leads one to believe new Missing Middle housing will help resolve racial and ethnic inequality in our housing policy. Question 22 omits extensive background that suggests the county could pursue far more effective options than current policy or Missing Middle policy to address both affordability and demographic diversity.
-- Formats limit or skew feedback. Question 10 does not allow any added comment for those who check "none" in response to "what types of housing are missing?" You must click "other" to provide added background/context/info; this will skew poll results as respondents are forced into an "either/or" response here. Question 11 offered a list of traits "you like about your neighborhood." Someone who does not check a box (say "diversity" or "mature trees") could either not value that trait or could be indicating they do not believe their neighborhood offers that trait currently.

Arlington's Land Use and Zoning History

The zoning and land use decisions of the 1940s-1960s to restrict missing middle housing in most of the County reinforced racial segregation practices of that era, such as the restrictions on FHA mortgages for African Americans to purchase a single-family home. Lending restrictions were banned in the 1960s, yet the Zoning and General Land Use Plan separation of housing types remain today. Modern consequences include continued limitations on missing middle housing and a growing understanding of the original segregationist, exclusionary intent of separating residential uses, separation that persists to the present today.
